PROJECTS

MediCool

View GitHub

MediCool is a drug prescription app that makes it easier for users to keep track of their drug usage and schedule.
React | Redux | CSS | Ant Design

- I worked on the frontend of this project alone by consuming a well-documented API.
- I made use of React Router to make it a Single Page Application
- I used plain CSS for the styling of the landing page and Redux for state management.

A flashcard application to make everybody's study-session more effective, while saving them time and money.
React | Redux | Ant Design

- I collaborated with 6 other developers from distinct parts of Europe
- I created the user login flow using ant design's custom components for UI and validation
- I worked on the ability of an authenticated user to create, update, and delete flashcards from a deck.

Restaurant Passport

With this app, you can find restaurants within a city to satisfy your urge for food

React | Redux | Ant Design | CSS

- This was a solo project that I completed in a few days. I used already documented endpoints to build the frontend
- I implemented CRUD functionality using Redux as a state management system
- I designed the user authentication workflow and made it fully functional
